The Sin of Silence

When the Nazi thugs moved through the cities of Germany smashing the windows of Jewish homes and shops, a few people spoke up but not very many.

Men, women and children were murdered and became innocent victims, yet few wished to "get involved" in this "political issue." That was the beginning of the Holocaust and the perpetrators gained confidence to carry out their atrocities because most people looked the other way and did nothing.

Tragically, it is happening again today in our beautiful America, so richly and abundantly blessed by a gracious God. Once again, the innocent are being slaughtered in a forty year Holocaust that has seen over 60 million children brutally put to death by legalized abortion.

It is absolutely imperative that Christians stand up and be counted. We simply cannot remain silent in the face of evil and moral perversity!

"All that is necessary for the triumph of evil is for good men to do nothing." German pastor, Pastor Martin Niemoller

Fr. Kevin's Reflection

The Church, in its liturgy now begins to wind down now (or maybe wind up) ... depending on your perspective. You will begin to notice a movement to the end of the year of grace of 2017 as we look forward to the celebration of Christ the King! Jesus, reminds us in our readings and prayers ... He is the "all in all" ... the Beginning and End ... the A to Z .. the Alpha and Omega.

For me the best way to reflect on this week's readings: they remind me of fishing on the river. In the boat, everyone sees the surface of the water. Thanks to physics and buoyancy, we have the ability to travel on that liquid surface with little consideration of what is really around us (or, better, under us). It takes the scuba drivers and their cameras to bring to our reality what is really there: on, in and around the river.

Such is the case in the first reading from the prophet Isaiah this week as Isaiah (the scuba diver) has to give Cyrus the king a reality check. Cyrus is the kind of man who travels on the surface without even caring or taking into account the physics (or, if you like, the metaphysics) that keeps him afloat. The same goes with the Herodians who question Jesus about the trivial matter which actually goes to a deeper reality as to what is due to God. (A real Force that Star Wars movies attempts to bring into conceptual reality.)

A French scientist and philosopher, Teilhard de Chardin (and friends) in the early 20th century proposed a concept called: "Noosphere". (He is kind of like the character Obi-Wan Kenobi [in the 1st, 2nd, 3rd movies] ... the scuba diver). The idea behind "Noosphere" was that creation (or, if you like, evolution) can be explained by a metaphysical higher force (spirit and its understanding) embrace the physical whole and are blended into a kind of living organism. (Invoking the epistles to the Ephesians and Colossians, Teilhard looks on Christ as the energy that strives toward the Noosphere and finally incorporates everything in its "fullness".) I know it is kind of deep water here ... but ... from here Teilhard went on to give a new meaning to Christian worship: the transubstantiated Host is the anticipation of the transformation and divinization of matter in the Christological "fullness". In his view, the Eucharist provides the movement of the cosmos with its direction ... it anticipates its goal and at the same time urges it on.

Yes, even the modern scientist (and movie makers) attempt to grasp what is owed rightfully to this world ... but at the same time ... give honor and worship to God for His reality in our fundamental lives. They themselves move towards the ultimate evolutionary reality of Christ the King too.

Generous giving produces rejoicing in one's soul

Today is World Mission Sunday, a day that leads us to the heart of our Christian faith—leads us to mission! Your generosity on World Mission Sunday supports the work of priests, religious and lay leaders in the Missions who share our faith with those most in need. This year we can even “chat” with our chief missionary, Pope Francis, and learn more about his missions and missionaries. Scan this year's World Mission Sunday poster using Facebook Messenger for your mobile device, or learn

"Some people argue that changing laws will not eliminate abortions. It is certainly true that a change of heart is more important than a change of law. What is forgotten, however, is that the law is the great teacher. Children grow up believing that if a practice is legal, it must be moral."
