Abortion For Profit

The 1.3 million annual abortions in the U.S. make it a huge business. Around $600 million is spent each year on first trimester abortions and about $400 million is spent on late-term abortions. That means that each year in the U.S., the abortion industry (and it most definitely is an industry) brings in approximately one billion dollars through their abortion services alone. If you add in the $500 million plus that Planned Parenthood (America's largest abortion provider) receives in government grants and contracts every year, the annual dollar amount is around one and a half billion dollars.

Abortion, to put it plainly, is a very large and lucrative business. As Olasky states in his book, Abortion rites, there are many doctors who support abortion "if not for principle, at least for principal".

What this means to the abortion debate is that people and organizations who defend abortion the most vehemently are often the ones who rake in the profits from its continued availability. This obviously sets up a significant conflict of interest and should immediately call into question the insincere claims and assertions they make, particularly their "desire to reduce the number of abortions."

Fr. Kevin's Reflection

The Relationship of the Liturgy to Time and Space.

This week's readings (especially the first reading) brings up a very interesting aspect about God and man. God exists outside of time (remember He is the Creator of time ... and space. He is not constricted or contained in time. As a matter of thought: time and space is actually contained in God ... past, present and future). I will warn you, if you think about this too much, you will find yourself in a meditative prayer for a few hours ... waking up having to think about it over and over. However, Moses tells the People of Israel, this God of ours comes into time and space and says – of all the nations on earth ... I choose you! Now, I am going to give you the time and space ... how to worship Me and where to worship Me. (Some of you may remember the 60's expression: "Far out man" ... that's "cosmic".)

Here's the question: can there really be special holy places and holy times in the world of Christian faith? Christian worship has to be a cosmic liturgy (something "beyond" ourselves), which embraces both heaven and earth. St. Paul tells us that Christ suffered "outside the gate" and adds this advice: "Therefore let us go forth to Him outside the camp, bearing abuse for him" (Heb. 13:12). Is the whole world not now His sanctuary? Is sanctity not to be practiced by living one's daily life in the right way? Is our divine worship not a matter of being loving people in our daily life? Is that not how we become like God and so draw near to the True Sacrifice? Can the 'rites of worship' be anything other than imitating Christ in the simple patience of daily life? Can there be any other holy time than the time for practicing love of neighbor, whenever and wherever the circumstances of our life demand it?

Some mistaking think that Christ came (comes) into the world and ended needing to come to a place (a building) to worship God. Whoever asks questions like these touches on a crucial dimension of the Christian understanding of worship ... but overlooks something essential about the permanent limits of human existence in this world. A person may overlook the "not yet" that is part of Christian existence and talks as if the New Heaven and New Earth had already come. The Christ-event and the growth of the Church out of all the nations ... the transition from Temple sacrifice to universal worship "in spirit and truth" ... is the first important step across the frontier: a step toward the fulfillment of the promises of the Old Testament. But it is obvious that hope has not yet fully attained its goal. The New Jerusalem needs no Temple because Almighty God and the Lamb are themselves its Temple. In this City, instead of sun and moon, it is the glory of God and its lamp, the Lamb, that shed their brilliance (cf. Rev 21:22.). But this City is not yet here. That is why the Church Fathers described the various stages of fulfillment ... not just as a contrast between Old and New Testaments ... but as the three steps of: shadow, image, and reality. In the Church of the New Testament the shadow has been scattered by the image - "The night is far gone, the day is at hand" (Rom 13:12). As St. Gregory the Great puts it as an analogy ... it is still only the time of dawn, when darkness and light are intermingled. The sun is rising, but it has still not reached its zenith.

So the time of the New Testament is a peculiar kind of "in-between", a mixture of "already and not yet". The "real world" conditions of life in this world are still in force, but they have been burst open ... and must be more and more burst open ... in preparation for the final fulfillment already just started in Christ.

"You formed my inner most being; you knit me in my mother's womb. I praise you, so wonderfully you made me; wonderful are your works!"

Psalm 139:13-14
