

Word of Life Intercessions for Life
 Feb 16th ~ 6th Sunday in Ordinary Time
 For the times we have disregarded God's commandments and violated the sanctity of human life:
 May we repent, receive the Lord's mercy, and live according to His laws;
 We pray to the Lord: Lord hear our prayer.

To the Apostles and Rome

With our new Bishop Donald DeGrood installed this past Thursday, it's a good opportunity for us to reflect on what a bishop is and why we need one. Even in the time of Moses, his brother Aaron served as the first high priest in the tent or tabernacle that housed the Ark of the Covenant during their travels through the desert. Aaron's sons assisted their father as fellow priests in offering sacrifices, while the rest of Aaron's tribe (the Levites) assisted with various other tasks connected with the sacred things while not as directly involved in the priestly duties of Aaron and his sons. This model of sacred ministry persisted through the centuries even as King Solomon constructed the first Temple in Jerusalem: one high priest, several assisting priests, and the Levites.

When Jesus founded the Church upon the Apostles, and as the Church spread from Jerusalem to other cities, they would establish three degrees of ordained ministry as well. The first we read about in the New Testament are the deacons (from the NT Greek diakonoi, "servants," Cf. Acts 6). Initially tasked with "serving at table" impoverished widows so that the Apostles could concentrate on prayer and proclaiming the Gospel, deacons correspond most readily to the Levites of the Old Testament. Next, we hear of the Apostles Paul and Barnabas appointing priests (presbyteroi, "elders," Acts 14:23) in each city as they returned from their first missionary journey, to govern the Church in their absence. Eventually, as the Apostles themselves began to be martyred, each major city would have one high priest, a bishop (episkopos, "overseer") and successor to the Apostles.

Bishop DeGrood now serves as our visible link through all the centuries of the Church to the Apostles and Jesus Himself. He is also our link to the Bishop of Rome, Pope Francis, who rightly presides over all other bishops as successor to St. Peter, Prince of the Apostles. Rome is also where St. Paul, the great Apostle to the Gentiles, shed his blood for Christ, and at the time of Jesus, Rome was the capital of the known world.

All the ministry carried out by other priests and deacons in each diocese is done as under the authority of and in communion with the local Bishop and the Pope, the two who are mentioned by name in the prayers of every Mass. Through them, we belong to "one flock and one shepherd," the one Church of Christ spread throughout the world and down through the centuries (John 10:16).
